Rebates on newly purchased automobiles by the three major car manufacturers seem to be working, with sales up substantially in the last three or four weeks.

You can be sure of one thing — if it really works, if sales continue strong over a period of months, the rebating will be discontinued, first by one, then by all. So, if you are in the market for a new car, this might be the propitious moment to step in and save a bundle!

ANOTHER THING. If you are planning a trip this year you might be advised to take it soon, before gasoline is rationed or becomes more expensive, or both. We don't know how much of the president's energy saving program Congress will buy, but you can bet a bunch that, whatever else, traveling is soon to be a luxury most of us can afford only so much.

In the event of rationing, which is still a hot topic of debate, long trips will virtually cease, bringing cries of anguish from vacation areas and kinsmen all over the country.

As a member of the Texas Library and Historical Commission, it was my responsibility, and, as it turned out, my pleasure, to appear before State Senator A. M. Aikin's Finance Committee this week. We wanted funds to continue Library activities throughout the state. These are perilous economic times, as we all know, and some of us probably felt some slight twinge of concern as Dr. Dorman Winfrey, Director and Librarian, began to present our true accounts.

AS IT TURNED OUT, we had no reason for fear, so far as Chairman Aikin's committee was concerned. Several of the senators readily spoke up, expressing their views that the Library was doing a fine job, while Senator Aikin, a courtly, genial, sincere gentleman made us feel welcome. When the brief encounter was over I felt an additional glow of pride for the remarkable Texas State Library and all its good works. I am not, let it be known, bragging on anything I did for the library. It was all there, even as today, when I became attached. When I am gone, it won't miss me.

NEW CONCERN IS BEING FELT here for the diminishing number of usable parking spaces around the square. When the big shopping centers were opening, with acres of free parking, most observers felt that never again would there be a parking problem on the square. It hasn't worked that way, however, and once again would-be-shoppers are irritably circling the square, looking for a place to head in. The problem, of course, is mainly with us business people and our employees, also the courthouse crowd. We use the parking spaces, many of us do, because we are too lazy to walk a couple of blocks four times daily. If just half of us would be considerate enough to use the off-square parking lots there wouldn't be a problem.

There probably should be one hour parking on the square, with two or three hours permitted on the adjoining streets. It is really hard to come up with a totally fair scheme. The solution might well be parking meters, which are wanted by few, or a fairly uniform sense of courtesy and concern by the people who earn their living around these historic four blocks.

We endorse a name for our North Fork Lake — see editorial on page 2.

Hospital Authority officials will address the Georgetown City Council in the council chambers at 7 p. m. Thursday.

Last Monday, Jay Sloan, Hospital Authority president, told the council that the FHA would not approve a multimillion dollar loan for a new hospital in Georgetown unless the city agrees to put up $500,000 and guarantee repayment of the debt.

The council asked Sloan to find out the specifics of the FHA requirements — particularly whether the city's guarantee would cover only the bonds sold by Georgetown or the entire $3 million debt.

Financial advisors for both the City Council and the Hospital Authority are expected to meet this week to discuss the loan possibilities.

Reports on Bicentennial preparations highlighted a 2-hour session of the Georgetown Bicentennial Committee Thursday night.

The Heritage '76, Festival U.S.A., and Horizons '76 committees outlined dozens of projects to celebrate the United States' 200th year of independence from Britain.

Also, the 15-member Bicentennial Commission reported on its plans to fund and coordinate the activities of the committees.

Directors' report

Jo Ann Morse and Lynn Burnette, Bicentennial Commission directors, recapped the history of the Bicentennial effort and noted that Georgetown was designated an official American Revolution Bicentennial City by both state and national authorities.

MRS. BURNETTE said that state and national Bicentennial officials will award the city a certificate and a Bicentennial flag. The ceremony is planned to coincide with the dedication of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Park this year.

The Georgetown Bicentennial Committee has applied for a $7500 grant to construct a Bicentennial Bandstand in San Gabriel Park, she added.

Georgetown Mayor Joe Crawford stated that the commission is drafting a letter to send to each local business to raise funds for Bicentennial projects.

L. A. Rutledge, a Bicentennial commissioner, said proposals to promote the Georgetown celebration with Bicentennial pins are also under consideration.

• A PROJECT to sponsor a tour of historic homes and churches in Georgetown was explained by Mrs. J. T. Atkin.

Mrs. Atkin said there is a more-than-adequate supply of historic structures in the city. Her subcommittee plans to hold the tour on a Saturday and Sunday afternoon in 1975 or 1976.

The subcommittee will sell tickets for the tour and print a map of historic homes and churches on the tour route.

A placard will be placed in the yard of each home, and the committee will research a brief history of the structures, Mrs. Atkin said.

She added that hostesses are needed to coordinate the historic tour.

• Skip Morse reported that the Heritage Committee's historical zoning ordinance is slated for

Commissioners favor 30 day deposits

Williamson County Commissioners outlined a proposal Thursday which will give the county more flexibility than it has had for funds in depositories in the past.

County officials had called a meeting with all area bankers and savings and loan personnel to "determine how the money will be distributed."

"Our purpose in being here today is primarily to hear your side of the story and to give you the county's side," said County Auditor Ben Kurio.

Funds to be deposited will total approximately $500,000 throughout the year, Kurio estimated.

He explained that the amount varies throughout the year and that some of the funds are in bonds, others in Revenue Sharing and others in reserve.

"THE FLEXIBILITY is the big advantage to the county," said Commissioner Wesley Foust of the county's three point proposal.

The only banks which will have demand deposit (checking accounts) will be the Georgetown banks. Previously, the county had carried demand deposits in all the county banks in which it also had time deposits. No interest is paid on demand deposits.

Foust said the policy of having multiple demand deposits was favorable to the banks but was costing the county money. He added that the amount of funds left in demand deposits will be just enough to handle monthly costs for the county.

THE COUNTY'S proposal is:

— to retain the privilege of designating deposits to banks for five percent interest for 30 to 59 days.

— six percent for time deposits of $1000 or more for a year to be deposited on a pro-rated basis depending on capital structure of the banks.

— to be negotiated by banks for $100,000 or more if desired by the county and to reserve the right to negotiate interest at local money values.

All deposits will be reviewed by commissioners every six months.

SUGGESTING THAT the traditional system which the county has used is the fairest, John Griffiths, chairman of the board of the Taylor National Bank said he thought the county should deposit in all banks which wished to serve in that capacity. He said the method would put the money back into circulation where they began.

It is a system to distribute the money evenly

Council replies to telephone suit

The Georgetown City Council, defendant in a General Telephone lawsuit for higher rates, has filed four documents in 26th District Court. The City Council has asked the court to:

• Dismiss the suit, because the telephone company has not complied with the city charter in seeking increased service charges.

• Deny the General Telephone request for an injunction to immediately institute a higher rate schedule for the Georgetown-Jarrell exchange.

• Require the utility to produce "certain documents, records, books and other items" for inspection.

• Relay to General Telephone the council's request for answers to 12 questions about the proposed rate change.

THE TELEPHONE COMPANY filed a suit against the City Council on December 23 to impose a 33 percent increase in the local 1-party business phone rate and a 20 percent hike in the 1-party residential rate.

The council's plea in abatement asks the 26th District Court to dismiss the lawsuit on grounds that the utility has not complied with the city charter or the city's request for information.

The council contends that General Telephone has not exhausted its "administrative remedies" in attempting to secure the rate increase outside the courtroom.

THE DOCUMENT STATES that the utility did not follow the Georgetown city charter. The charter states: "No public utility franchise holder shall institute any legal action to contest any rate, charge or fare fixed by the council unless such franchise holder has filed a motion for rehearing with the council. . . ."

Furthermore, the plea in abatement contends that General Telephone has not supplied the City Council with the rate-related information promised by the telephone company on December 9.

The council said it requested more details, specific information, and a breakdown on operating expenses.

Because General Telephone has not provided that information, the City Council states, "It is improper for the council to act on such a rate increase application, for the reason that the defendant is unable to evaluate and determine the fairness of the rate increase application without such information."

IN ITS ANSWER to the telephone suit, the City Council denies the allegations listed in the complaint, requests a trial on the issues, and asks the court to deny the utility's bid for an injunction to charge higher rates until the matter is settled in court.

"The plaintiff has tendered an application that would yield a rate of return in excess of that permitted by law," the document contends.

It states that General Telephone is "not entitled to an injunction allowing it to charge the illegal rates it has demanded."

The City Council has also filed a motion asking the court to require the phone company to produce certain documents for inspection and copying.

For North Fork river project

'Lake Tonkawa' suggested

To the Tonkawa tribe, Williamson County was the takatchue pouetsu — "land of good water" — ten thousand years before construction started on the North Fork dam project on the San Gabriel River.

SALLY GEE PETTUS DIES

Mrs. Sally Gee Pettus died Friday morning at the Baptist Memorial Hospital in San Antonio following a lengthy illness.

Funeral services were pending at press time.

Mrs. Pettus grew up in Georgetown, the daughter of prominent early residents in this community.

Committee discussed a proposal to preserve the heritage of that native tribe by asking Congress to designate the result of the dam project, "Lake Tonkawa."

Kathy Hubbard was appointed to investigate the merits of the proposal and report to the committee next month.

The Tonkawas were a peaceful, democratic nation of hunters and farmers in Central Texas and particularly Williamson County. The tribe's burial ground will be flooded when the North Fork project is completed in 1978.

Mrs. Hubbard noted that no other lake or dam carries the name "Tonkawa." She said that to persuade Congress to name the project "Lake Tonkawa" will require research and letter-writing.

Paul Harvey

Whenever, wherever there is waste, extravagance or theft — you pay for it.

This basic economic fact of life has been obscured by the complexity of our nation's economy: If anybody gets or takes more than he earns, it comes out of your pocket.

FOR INSTANCE: The popularity of credit cards is only partly the "convenience." Any merchant knows you'll spend more when you don't have to pay for it — now.

You and I will pledge more for church than we'll give because we don't have to part with the money — now.

You and I will allow our city, state and federal governments to approve public employee pensions so generous that a career employee of New York City's Board of Education may retire at age 65 and receive more annual income from his retirement than he did from his salary!

It's all these postponed obligations catching up with us that bankrupt our public treasures and require us to dig deeper into our private pockets.

Our nation is averaging 50 bank robberies a week, yet we hear no public outcry for tighter security and tougher laws because we imagine the banks or their insurance companies are absorbing the loss.

Banks and insurance companies never absorb any losses but pass along all such increased costs of doing business to their customers — us.

THE HEADLINE STORY says, "Our nation's businesses lost $20.3 billion to criminals this past year."

Those businesses didn't lose a nickel. For everything that was stolen they increased the price of something else. It's you and I who are being generous.

Add up the losses from shoplifters, burglars, vandals, check forgers and thieving employees (many businesses will tell you they lose 10 times more cash and/or merchandise to thieving employees than to shoplifters) plus the $3.9 billion industry spends every year trying to prevent stealing and what criminals took from businesses this past year cost every adult in the United States $137.

And this kind of crime was allowed to increase another 25% over the year before, and you've heard no public outcry.

A VERY LARGE PART of the higher cost of living which burdens each of us goes to parasites.

A big old bunch of deferred payments are coming due.

Now when some of the wet-eared whippersnappers in this new Congress start signing your name to some more promissory notes, tell 'em you don't want any more something-for-nothing: you can't afford it.

We agree - Lake Tonkawa!

With work on the North Fork dam progressing steadily it is not surprising that a number of people are interested in giving a name to the lake the dam will create.

WITH DUE RESPECT to all persons, living and dead, who have been associated with the sixty year effort to make the dam dream a reality, add our name to others who have suggested that it be named for the Indian tribe that loved the San Gabriel River and lived along its banks for ten thousand years prior to the white man's arrival about 150 years ago.

Lake Tonkawa would be a fitting memorial to the Indian tribe that greeted the settlers when they came here in the mid 19th century. These Indians were peace loving, yet became renowned scouts for the Texans and assisted the pioneers in many ways before they disappeared. It was they who gave the San Gabriel the name Clara Scarbrough adopted for her Williamson County History: Land of Good Water, or in the Tonkawa tongue — Takachue Pouetsu.

The lake could not be named for any individual without some slight to dozens of others who made equal contributions to its creation. Perhaps the first person to envision a lake above Georgetown was John M. Sharpe, long-time publisher of this newspaper. He took then Congressman James Buchanan to almost the exact spot where the dam is being erected and the two men agreed a dam ought to be there. That was approximately 60 years ago. Yet I doubt that Mr. Sharpe would consider his efforts more important than those made by many who followed.

THERE IS SOME FEELING that the lake should bear the name of Georgetown, to give it better recognition and faster reception as a recreation area. Others point out that it will be a small lake, the ideal size to be enjoyed by what might be called a local clientele, or from a 50 mile radius. For this purpose no special benefit can be attached to having it bear the name of Georgetown at its outset. Or, at least, that's our belief.

Frankly, we hope the lake doesn't bring a swarm of people from all over the state, quickly destroying the natural beauty around it and polluting it so that it becomes an eye-sore and a liability in just a few years. We want it to remain Clear Water, and the San Gabriel to stay that way too.

So, thinking of these things, we are firmly of the belief that it can be named Lake Tonkawa, or Tonkawa Lake, without offense or disappointment to anyone, that this is a beautiful and historic name in keeping with what we like to think about this area, and too, that it is appropriate and fitting that our Indian natives be remembered in this fashion.

This year's license plate must last five years

If all goes according to plan, the Texas motor vehicle license plate might soon outlast the motor vehicle that "wears" it.

Beginning February 1, the majority of motor vehicles operating in Texas may be eligible to use the new "multi-year" license plate, renewable annually for five years of driving. According to Bob Townsley, Director of the Highway Department's Motor Vehicle Division, approximately 9.2 million renewal notices are already in the mail to vehicle owners announcing the fact. "Motorists will notice no change in the registration procedure this year," said Townsley. "Only the license plate to be issued will be different."

Instead of the usual metal plate, a heavier, non-corrosive steel will be used for greater endurance. Also, the plate will be reflectorized and will feature black letters and numerals on a white field, considered by experts to be the most easily readable color combination.

"The real change in registration procedure will come in 1976," explained the Highway Department official. Next year, instead of buying a new license plate, owners will purchase a 1-by 2-inch adhesive-type validation tag that will be placed in the debossed upper left corner of the plate. In 1977, the tag will be stuck in the upper right corner to cover the debossed "75", and alternated for the ensuing years. Townsley said the tags cannot be easily removed without deterioration, a part of the plan to discourage vandalism or theft.

The "multi-year" plate to be used in Texas is almost identical to the one adopted by California some years ago. Specifications for plate design, letters and numerals were obtained from that state after careful study by Highway Department officials. "We found California to be completely successful with its 'multi-year' licensing system and it came closest to the 'new look' we wanted for Texas," said Director Townsley.

The first move this session toward the more active role in legislation came when the House Appropriations Committee increased the state employees emergency pay raise above what the Senate had voted, and the $17 million extra was what Briscoe wanted trimmed out.

He called in a large group of House members, committee chairmen and the like, and got his message across.

Next day, the bill by Rep. Fred Head of Athens was, on Head's motion, cut back dutifully to the $93 million level on which Briscoe had insisted.

DURING HIS FIRST legislative session, if Briscoe asserted strong and decisive leadership in such fashion, it was not as public as this was. The House members came to his public reception room, and they worked it out.

It would be only natural for Briscoe, easily elected to a four-year term, to be more confident and assertive than two years ago, when he had a fairly close race for a two-year term.

Many, including this correspondent, had felt that Briscoe would be stronger this legislative session than he was two years ago. Others, pointing to his flat refusal to have anything to do with influencing the Constitutional Convention one way or another in 1974, felt that he would remain the quiet type he had been.

His State of the State message this year contained that broad-ranging call for doing a lot of big things. Few were surprising, but some were, including his turn-around on wiretapping.

Congress created the DEA in July, 1973, in an effort to eliminate the inter-agency rivalries that used to plague the war on narcotics. Our own two-month investigation of DEA, however, reveals that the old animosities are still alive. Only now are they under one roof.

Office politics at DEA have gotten so rough, in fact, that the FBI has been called in to investigate charges that the agency has been covering up in-house security probes. And on Capitol Hill, Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., has begun a full-scale investigation of the DEA.

Some influential lawmakers have told us privately that they hope to abolish the anti-narcotics agency. These legislators see the DEA as an expensive operation that has yielded only marginal results.

Iron Orders: When it comes to wage-price controls, some businesses get a little carried away. Take, for instance, the case of Robert E. Lauterbach, the president of Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel.

In a recent memo to all management personnel, Lauterbach inveighs against the evils of controls, and issues these marching orders: "I direct you to personally write to your Congressman and U.S. Senator, on personal, not corporate, stationary...be forceful and cite wherever possible examples that apply to your Congressman's constituency. Finally, forward to me a copy of your letter, as well as any response you receive. I'm looking forward to receiving them."

Lauterbach attached a four-page fact sheet that loyal employees could refer to. To work at Wheeling-Pittsburgh, you apparently have to share the president's ideological views.

United Feature Syndicate

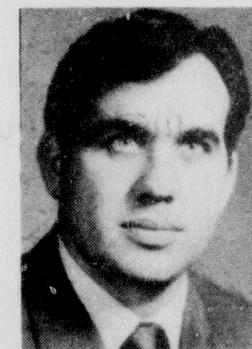

changing license plates annually a chore!" He reminded, "Certain classes of motor vehicles will still require annual purchase of plates. These include radio operators, dealers, state officials and those passenger cars displaying 'personal' plates."

Motorists using the new plates will notice the use of vowels for the first time. Since 1965, when the "English" system of a three-letter prefix and a two to three digit basic number was adopted, only consonants were used. Townsley says there are just too many vehicles in Texas to allow consonants only. The first 1975 license plate will be AAA 10 to issued in Bastrop County.

Also for the first time, a new five-year travel trailer plate will be available. This classification includes all camper trailers and house trailer-type vehicles which are (1) not in excess of 6,000 pounds gross weight or (2) not in excess of 8 feet wide or 55 feet in overall length when measured in combination with the towing vehicle, regardless of weight. The registration fee is based on actual weight including all furnishings. Annual license plates and movement permits will be available for mobile homes and house trailer-type vehicles exceeding these specifications.

Annual registration fees for motor vehicle owners will remain the same as in the past — $12.30 for vehicles weighing up to 3,500 pounds; $22.30 for vehicles weighing 3,501 to 4,500 pounds; $30.30 for vehicles weighing 4,501 to 6,000 pounds; vehicles weighing 6,001 pounds or more are charged at the rate of 55 cents per hundred pounds of weight.

Motorists are encouraged to register their vehicles early and avoid the "last minute" rush. Registrants may apply by mail immediately, or "in person" at their county tax office and substations beginning February 1. Mail applicants are reminded to return the entire renewal notice along with their payment and one dollar per vehicle to cover postage and handling. Allow at least 30 days for delivery of plates. The registration deadline is midnight, April 1.

AUSTIN — Emergency pay raises for State employees fill the legislative spotlight last week as the House molded a bill providing higher wages without threatening the State budget.

Working on a bill already passed by the Senate, the House sliced $3 million from its total cost for a final figure of $93 million.

Technical problems with the House bill necessitated a quick rewrite job and another round of votes to make the raise effective in February.

I think the bill represents a practical balance between the need for fair salaries and the fact that government spending reinforces inflation. I voted for the bill, and I hope the economy improves soon to allow another look at State salaries.

For the information of State employees in the District, here are the new pay rates anticipated:

• Classified employees from Grade 2 to 12 will get a 13 percent raise, and those from Grade 13 to 21 will get a 9 percent raise.

• Unclassified employees earning less than $876 per month will get a 13 percent raise; those earning between $876 and $1,267 will receive $114 per month in extra pay.

• Employees receiving from $1,267 to $1,935 will get a 9 percent raise, and those earning above $1,935 will get an extra $174 per month.

The raises switch back and forth between percentage and dollar figures to spread the pay scale as fairly as possible.

Clergy Bill Considered: The House Judiciary Committee has held hearings on my legislation to protect information given by individuals to priests, preachers and rabbis, and I am hopeful it will soon go to the House for a vote.

My bill will give the clergy and penitents (confessors) the same privileges that exist now between lawyer-client, doctor-patient and husband-wife.

There is no known case of a Texas judge forcing a clergyman to testify against a member of his congregation, but that will be a possibility until legislation such as mine that the oil crisis can be solved without war. And in the secret policy councils, he has vigorously opposed the idea of military intervention against the oil states.

Meanwhile, Kissinger has been scheming secretly with the Shah of Iran to find a solution to the Middle East mess.

The two men have developed a warm personal relationship. Kissinger has persuaded the Shah that another Middle East war would increase Arab dependency upon the Soviets and, therefore, strengthen Soviet influence in the Middle East. This would be a threat, Kissinger warned, to Iran's position.

The Shah has secretly agreed, therefore, to supply Israel with the oil she would lose by giving up the captured Egyptian oil fields. The Shah is also willing to join the United States in guaranteeing Israel's survival. This is significant, because Iran is emerging as a military power in the Middle East.

Egypt's President Sadat has told both Kissinger and the Shah, meanwhile, that Israel must give up more than the oil fields. There must also be withdrawals from the Golan Heights on the Syrian front and the West Bank on the Jordanian front. Sadat explained that he could never accept a deal that didn't also include his Arab brothers.

THERE WAS NO INDICATION of any ill-will in the departure. Purnell had been saying for a long time that his law firm was wondering when he would come back. And the state salary was no doubt far below what a member of a prominent Dallas law firm earns.

Purnell has been a conser-

Gauny - Smith

Miss Alice E. Gauny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willy Gauny of San Saba became the bride of Bobby L. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith of Florence in a candlelight service Saturday evening at the First Baptist Church in Florence with Rev. Ed Jennings performing the double ring ceremony. Given in marriage by her brother W. G. Gauny of Leander the bride wore a formal gown of white crystaline with empire styling. The bodice featured a banded neck and a dropped yoke accented with Grecian lace and satin ribbon insertion. Her chapel length train of illusion was attached to a Camelot headpiece. She carried a white Bible topped with feathered carnations accented with blue sash love knots.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Linda Reynolds of Houston; flower girl was Trudi Gauny, niece of the bride. Mike Smith served his brother as best man. Ushers were Rusty Smith, brother of the groom and Edward Jennings. Kent Burress played traditional wedding music and Miss Joyce David of Granger was soloist. A reception followed in the church fellowship hall. House party members were Mrs. Hollis Satterfield, Mrs. Mike Smith and Mrs. W. G. Gauny. The couple will live in Austin.

GOVERNOR DOLPH BRISCOE in his State of the State message to the joint session of the 64th Texas Legislature said "the Ten Fundamental Rights of Texans must be both protected and perfected by the Legislature." The Ten Rights are: an economical; efficient and responsive State Government; honest and open government; fair elections; quality education; safe streets and neighborhoods; privacy; health care; a clean and fruitful environment; mobility; and decent treatment.

Optimist Club

Oil tankers pose threat

The hazard of shipping oil by "monstrous supertankers" was explained to the Georgetown Noon Optimist Club Tuesday. Walter Spitzer, a Georgetown businessman who worked for several years in the oil industry on the island of Aruba, northwest of Venezuela, said sea life is ballooned to more than 750,000 tons, he said.

The reason for the increase was "in part, greed. Big tankers meant big money. And another reason was the insatiable thirst for oil in the United States, Europe and Japan."

A ship that holds 750,000 tons of oil is hazardous, Spitzer said, because:

• It has 350 miles of seams, where two pieces of metal are riveted together. Also, the tanks for the oil are just one-quarter inch thick. Oil seepage from the supertankers poses a problem.

The most threatened points on the earth are the Cape of Good Hope and the English Channel, he added.

Spitzer said that in 1964, the largest ship he saw afloat carried 110,000 tons of crude oil.

Today, the tankers have there's so much oil it cannot be pumped into another vessel.

Spitzer said that these large tankers leaving from the Persian Gulf to Europe or Japan have polluted the underwater currents near the Cape of Good Hope with millions of tons of crude oil.

"The Southern Seas Current there is just devastated," he said.

Spitzer said he is "dead set against" an offshore port for the supertankers because there is no way to anchor a ship that is going to unload its oil cargo one mile off the coast.

He said he recognized the need for better oil transporting facilities, but said that the size of ships used about a decade ago are capable of handling oil cargo without the high risk of pollution.

Spitzer warned that people must unite to fight pollution of the world's seas.

"We have to look at ourselves, and realize what's happening to our oceans," Spitzer said. "Is it worth it?"

Crude oil is deadly to sea life, he added. Already, underwater excursions have shown that small fish no longer inhabit areas that were polluted by crude oil, Spitzer said.

Another pollution threat is still on the drawing boards, Spitzer explained. He said that plans for a 1.25 million ton oil tanker are being drawn up.

If introduced into the oil transport business, he added, it will be "the most hazardous thing on the ocean today."

N 1905 Mrs. Florence Butt came from Tennessee and started a small family grocery store in Kerrville in the central Texas Hill Country. That first store had an investment of about $50 in merchandise and fixtures.

Her young son, H.E. Butt, worked in the store and delivered groceries. After serving in the Navy in World War I, he took over the family business. He moved to the Rio Grande Valley in 1928, beginning the first franchise of the company. H.E.B. joined with the Piggy Wiggly franchise and grew rapidly, even though this was a time of business "depression."

Growth wasn't just by geography. The Harlingen Canning Company began in the thirties, producing "Texas grown, Texas packed" goods. Other manufacturing plants and construction companies were also established. Related activities expanded into farming and orchards, real estate, groceries and banking.

Company headquarters were moved to Corpus Christi from Harlingen in 1939 as the company's growth continued along the coastal bend and into Austin, San Antonio, Waco and surrounding communities. The Piggy Wiggly franchise ended in the forties. Texas Gold Stamp Company began in 1955.

Recent years have seen an extension of the company's service department. A new distribution center in San Antonio is supplemented by warehouses in Corpus Christi and Harlingen. H.E.B. operates a bread bakery, ice cream and other manufacturing facilities in Corpus Christi and a pastry bakery in San Antonio. Expansion has continued, especially in urban areas.

Charles Butt became president of the company in 1971. H.E. Butt continues as chairman of the board of the pioneer Texas supermarket chain that reaches from Llano in the north to Brownsville in the south and from Del Rio in the west to Wharton in the east.

100 books added to library

One hundred books valued at more than $1200 were added to the Georgetown Public Library collection Wednesday through the inter-library loan system for Central Texas.

Verne Philpot, librarian, explained that the Temple Public Library, through a grant, is providing books to smaller libraries in the area.

She said that the Temple Library will loan the Georgetown Library 100 books for one year.

The books cover a wide spectrum of subjects. Mrs. Philpot said many of the new additions to the library's shelves are bestsellers that would have cost the library $10-15.

Under the agreement with the Temple Library, she added, the Georgetown Library can exchange any of the books on loan for a different book purchased by Temple through the grant.

Also, the Georgetown Library has the option to buy any of the books on loan for just $2.29 — about $10 below list price. Mrs. Philpot said that after the book is purchased, the Temple Library will send another book on loan for the remainder of the year.

She said she hopes to start buying the books on loan from the Temple Library in two to three months.

School trustees at Liberty Hill to meet Monday

Liberty Hill School trustees will decide Monday how many Liberty Hill students will attend Georgetown High School in 1975-76.

The Georgetown School administration has set a February 25 deadline on pre-registering Liberty Hill students for the coming year.

This year, the Liberty Hill School Board has sent its upper three high school grades to Georgetown. Under tentative plans, when the new Liberty Hill High School building is completed this summer, the board will send only its upper two high school grades to Georgetown in 1975-76.

The unofficial policy has it that in 1976-77, just Liberty Hill seniors would attend Georgetown High School. By the 1977-78 year, all Liberty Hill students would attend school in Liberty Hill.

Trustees have not finalized the policy with a vote for the coming year. If they continue the present plan, Liberty Hill School District will send about 15 juniors and 15 seniors to Georgetown in 1975-76 — at a tuition cost of $350 per student.

The alternative to the plan is to open the new high school complex this coming year to upper high school grades.

The Liberty Hill School Board will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the school cafeteria to discuss the issue.

During the session, trustees will consider increasing the Liberty Hill School lunch charges to conform with federal government guidelines.

The board will also re-assign places for the upcoming school trustee election to put positions with expiring terms in consecutive order.

Consideration of a "real estate transaction" is also listed on the agenda.

Jarrell Booster Club to meet

The Jarrell Booster Club meeting is to be held Monday, February 3, at 7:30 p.m., at the Jarrell School. Stanley Havelka, the club president, is urging all members to attend and support your school.

Florence Chamber of Commerce names committees

—By Dot Goff, special SUN writer

T. E. Beck, vice president of the Union State Bank of Florence appointed new committees at the January 28th meeting of the Florence Chamber of Commerce. Beck is the new Chamber president.

Claude Brizendine, Benny Gower and Rev. Ed Jennings were selected to head the Livestock Committee to make a study of the money that will be needed to cover expenses for the committee in 1975-76. Mr. Brizendine gave a report on the committee and the livestock bought at the latest FFA shows. He asked the Chamber for $200 to supplement the cost of the calves bought. The members voted to give the Livestock Committee the $200 asked for.

Other committees appointed were Membership with Mrs. Bill Isbell as chairman, Mrs. Jewel Hamilton and Mrs. Hatlie Fulton; Food Committee, which will be responsible for the meals at each Chamber meeting with Mrs. David Merideth chairman, assisted by Mrs. Oran Gray; Friendship Days, Mrs. Melvin Stewart, chairman, with Mrs. Roy Frist.

buried in the Florence Cemetery. Volunteering to help were Mrs. Oran Gray, Mrs. David Merideth, Mrs. Jack Daniels and Fay Caskey.

Mrs. Al Alberts reported on the status of the Florence Public Library, saying that many books had been donated to the library and anyone knowing of any space suitable for a library may contact her or any library volunteer. Mrs. Alberts said that the Florence Masonic Lodge No. 338 had donated a Masonic Bible to the library. Members of the Library Committee will go to Austin Feb. 4th to discuss the possibility of a grant to help the local group

Miss Francis Lewis was named "Citizen of the Month." Mrs. Helon Whittenberg paid Miss Lewis a tribute for her civic work, and Miss McLeod presented Miss Lewis with a certificate and complimented her for her outstanding accomplishments as a school teacher, a devout Christian and a good citizen of Florence.

Serving with Mr. Beck will be Claude Brizendine, vice president; Mrs. Helon Whittenberg, secretary and treasurer Ms. Jane Marshall.

The next meeting of the Chamber will be at 7 p. m. at the City Hall on February 25, according to Mr. Beck.

The Corn Hill Cemetery Association will meet Tuesday, February 4 in Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church of Jarrell at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend.

Sports money crunch

By Phil Elderkin

Hopscotching the Sports World for Headlines — "I don't like what I see," said Bob Woolf, the Boston sports attorney who handles contract negotiations for some of the country's most prominent pro athletes. "Most pro teams are losing money. I know this from personal experience and I don't see any trends away from it."

"I am aware of a number of pro sports franchises that are for sale — with no takers," Woolf continued. "There aren't even any people around now with fresh money who are willing to come in for just a small piece of action. Believe me, that was not the case even a few months ago."

"And those baseball owners who stayed in the bidding all the way for Catfish Hunter certainly hurt their credibility with those of their players who are due to sign new contracts. Only a few weeks before some of those same owners were saying that increased operating costs would prevent them from giving big raises this year and I think most of the players believed them."

"But they don't believe them now. I'm starting to hear from a lot of my clients who suddenly feel they are worth a lot more money because of the Hunter thing — and who can blame them?" Woolf also said to watch how the Internal Revenue's case against the NFL Atlanta Falcons finally turns out in the courts. The IRS is currently questioning the Falcons' depreciation rights on some of its personal property. "If that is taken away," Bob says, "pro sports are really in trouble."

Rams and Namath

The NFL Los Angeles Rams have cooled on trying to get QB Joe Namath. Rams' Owner Carroll Rosenbloom put it this way: "We're not interested. We have a football team. We do not have individual playing at football. Joe is a friend of mine, but he is using us for trading purposes of his own. We don't like to be used." Namath has exercised the option clause in his Jets contract. If he does not sign a new one, he becomes a free agent on May 1 — able to deal with anybody.

Walton: trade bait?

Prediction: Look for the Portland Trail Blazers to trade center Bill Walton to the Los Angeles Lakers after the season for Elmore Smith, Cazzie Russell and a future draft pick. It's either that or get rid of the rest of the team, some of whom have openly criticized Walton's attitude, life-style and long furloughs away from the ball club. Asked if Bill was difficult to handle, Blazers' Coach Lennie Wilkens replied: "All personalities are different. I don't care about personalities. If a guy can play, I'll deal with him."

Palmer not retiring

Arnold Palmer has finally put a torch to those persistent rumors that he is retiring. "Even though my last two years on the tour have been very disappointing to me, I'm not quitting," Palmer said. "Most of my problems have stemmed from very heavy business commitments which were always in the back of my mind. As a result, I wasn't able to play as much golf as I wanted to or the way I wanted to." Palmer also admitted that he has a very personal goal. "I want to make the United States Ryder Cup team," he explained. The Ryder matches, which pit the 12 best American players against Britain's best, are scheduled this fall at the Laurel Valley Golf Club in Ligonier, Pa. That's Palmer's home course.

Rep. Kubiak supports presidential primary

AUSTIN — Rep. Dan Kubiak (D. - Rockdale) said Wednesday he has asked the House Elections Committee for early approval of his bill creating a Texas Presidential Primary.

Kubiak said his legislation allocates 75 percent of Presidential convention delegates according to primary results, with the remaining quarter chosen by each party's state convention.

"My bill would give each candidate the same fraction of delegates as received in the statewide primary," Kubiak said. "A candidate who gets one-third of the popular vote would get one-third of the 75 percent figure."

While state party conventions have become more representative, Kubiak said, the primary is needed as a direct expression of the people in choosing Presidential candidates. "Very few Texans can attend precinct or county conventions, and those who do are often so confused by procedural rules they don't know what is going on," Kubiak said. "If the parties want to involve the people in selecting a candidate, the way to do that is clear — let the people vote."

Kubiak said his bill retains a strong role for state conventions by giving them authority to choose 25 percent of the national convention delegates according to party rules.

My bill is aimed at preserving the leadership position of the state party and at the same time giving the people a preponderant role in choosing presidential nominees," Kubiak said. "The form of primary I am proposing would make the entire process more democratic."

Young Homemakers to hear McMaster

The Georgetown Young Homemakers will meet at the Stonehaven Center on February 4, at 7:30 p.m.

Joe McMaster, prominent lawyer and city attorney of Georgetown, will speak on "Legal Rights of Women Today." With women's changing roles in today's world, they need to be aware of what their legal rights are.

The program is open to the public and young women are invited — whether or not they plan to join.

Library Friends to meet Tuesday

Constitutional revision and committee appointments will occupy the Friends of the Georgetown Public Library this Tuesday.

The Friends will vote on proposed changes to the organization's constitution and by-laws, Ted Rowell, president, said.

He urged all local citizens who support the public library to attend the meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the library, 609 Main Street.

If the new constitution is approved, Rowell said, the Friends will appoint committees for the coming year.

He added that the organization will also discuss the possibility of another fund-raiser, like the 'Book-or-Buck' day three weeks ago.

Newcomers Club invites guests

The Georgetown Newcomers Club will meet for coffee in the home of Mrs. Wayne Burger, 1814 Main Street, on February 6 from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Barbara Seever and Mrs. John Green.

The purpose of the Newcomers Club is to provide a place to meet both newcomers and oldtimers and all ladies new to the community are urged to come and meet their neighbors.

A nursery is provided at First Baptist Church. Those who call and make 24 hours in advance reservations for their children in the nursery will get a discount rate of 60¢ per hour. The charge will be 75¢ per hour to those who do not make advance reservations. Call 863-6282 or 863-2631.

4-H leaders set two horse shows

The annual Williamson County Agribusiness Short Course is scheduled February 18 in Taylor and February 25 in Georgetown.

The program will focus on real estate, John Wakefield, county agent, said.

The 2-part course is sponsored by the Chambers of Commerce in the county, and by the Williamson County Extension Program Building Committee.

Farmers, ranchers, real estate brokers and other business people are invited to attend.

In Taylor on February 18 at Rudy Mikeska's Barbecue, Sol Bunnell, agricultural committee chairman for the Taylor Chamber of Commerce, will preside over the second session.

Graeber will discuss ways to pay for land in the county.

Arthur Ritchie, Georgetown accountant, will discuss tax considerations in buying and selling land.

The planning committee for the agribusiness short course includes Jack Roberts, Stanley Keese, Billy Banks, Gene Martinko, Tommie Stuart, Andy Prude, Hartwin Holmstrom, John Wakefield and Sol Bunnell.

"STATED SIMPLY," the motion reads, "the position of the City of Georgetown in this case is that to the date of filing this motion it has not received adequate information to enable it to responsibly act on the rate increase application."

The City Council is asked to provide answers for the council's questions within 16 days.

The City Council directs its questions at the rate increase and the method used by General Telephone to arrive at the rate proposal.

The interrogatories focus on the accumulated reserve for depreciation on the Georgetown-Jarrell investment in 1972 and the book depreciation on that investment.

The City Council also asks for the total customer deposits and deferred federal taxes for the Georgetown-Jarrell exchange in 1972 and 1973, and the local taxes paid on the Georgetown-Jarrell exchange in 1972 and 1973.

General Telephone is asked to explain the procedure it used to separate local expenses and revenues from the utility's total expenses and revenues reported during the test year of 1972.

Pvt. Miranda at Fort Riley

Army Private Frank R. Miranda, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Miranda, of Georgetown, is assigned as an infantryman in Company C, 1st Battalion of the 1st Infantry Division's 28th Infantry at Ft. Riley, Kan.

PATH FOR CATTLEMEN — Relief from the present cattle situation can only come from a reduction in cattle numbers or cattlemen, contends a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Many people went into the cattle business in 1972 and 1973 when calf prices were high.

License plates on sale

Peace Inez Ward in Granger.

Buck said he will later open an office in Cedar Park and in Round Rock.

He reminded car owners to bring their 3-part notifications received last month from the state to purchase license plates. The cards show the amount of the license fee.

The new plates will stay on the vehicles for five years, with changes made by fixing a small tag to the upper corners of the plates in succeeding years.

The new plates for Williamson County passenger vehicles will carry the letters AMJ and through ANH. Truck plates will bear AG and AH.

Buck said that in 1974, the county tax office sold 37,554 license plates. He expects to top that figure by about 5,000 this year.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Williamson County 4-H Horse Club leaders decided Monday to host horse shows on May 24 and June 14 this year.

Edward Wilke, assistant county agent, was named superintendent of the two events.

Points awarded at the shows will determine who will represent Williamson County at the 4-H District Show in Seguin later in 1975.

The events will be held in the Williamson County Sheriff's Posse Arena or the McCalla arena.

At the first show, the 4-H leaders decided, ribbons will be awarded. Trophies will be presented at the second show, based on points scored in both the May 24 and June 14 competition.

The 4-H clubs in Round Rock, Georgetown, Leander, Taylor and Liberty Hill each sponsor horse projects and will participate in the two horse shows.

At Monday's meeting at the courthouse, the 4-H leaders also discussed plans for training and selecting a Williamson County 4-H Horse Judging Team.

The county agents will call another session by mid-February for all 4-H Horse Club members interested in beginning training.

To sponsor the two horse shows this year, each 4-H Horse Club in the county will raise $50. With entry fees and concessions.

Douglas Glover will provide barrels, poles and a stop watch.

Gen Neans will also supply a stop watch for the competition.

Mrs. Barbara Hoyle will arrange for refreshments, and each 4-H family is asked to provide sandwiches and other food.

Attending the organizational meeting Monday were E. C. Henderson, Ervin Kaatz, Mr. and Mrs. Gen Neans, and Duane Blanchard, from Round Rock; Bud Barrington from Liberty Hill; and Mrs. Barbara Hoyle, Douglas Glover, and Harold Peschel from Georgetown.

Cynthia Simms presented a program on Music with no words. She played some records and had the members tell of the effects of the music on them.

Members enjoyed a salad tasting party with each member bringing a salad of their liking.

Attending were Tina Walker, Joyce Dailey, Karen Frist, Lin Penniman, Judy Whitfield, Linda Cisneros, Cynthia Simms, and Jean Inks.

LAW ENFORCEMENT DINNER — DPS Sergeant Fred Hurst adds the finishing touches to a steak dinner served Tuesday at the Georgetown Community Center. The Georgetown City Council and the Taylor City Commission sponsored the dinner in appreciation of the law enforcement officers of Williamson County. About 60 police officers and city and county officials attended the dinner.

AIRMAN RICHARD W. RAY, son of Mrs. Ray G. Alexander, Georgetown, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

During his six weeks training, he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman is remaining at the Air Training Command base for specialized training in communications-electronics systems.

Airman Ray attended Georgetown High School. His wife, Glenda, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jodie R. Millegan of Georgetown.

Hollywood honors 'Benji' composers

The Hollywood Foreign Press has presented a Golden Globe Award to the composers of the score for the film, "Benji."

The composers of that music are Euel and Betty Box, longtime Georgetown residents and former students at Southwestern University.

The music for "Benji" was chosen as the best original song for a motion picture. Although the Golden Globe Award is not billed as too prestigious by Hollywood watchers, it is a tip-off to possible candidates for an Oscar.

Euel Box flew from his home in Dallas to Hollywood last Sunday to receive the award.

He and Betty wrote the theme and title song for the movie. The song was recorded by a Dallas singing group, Mulberry Square.

Euel and Betty Box were honored at the Golden Globe Award presentation with other winners, including director Francis Ford Coppola, Raquel Neumann.

SPECTRUM sings for Business Women's League

The Georgetown High School SPECTRUM Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Sara Hausenfluke White entertained the Georgetown Business Women's League at its regular meeting February 28 at Stonehaven Center, with a thirty minute program of present day melodies.

To help encourage such a unique musical group, the League voted to send $25.00 to help defray its expenses.

Hostesses were Mildred Kauffmann, Lora Mae Anderson, Kathleen Woodfin, Estha Scoggins, and Maureen Francis Ford Coppola, Raquel Neumann.

Flag ceremony to mark Salado's Bicentennial name

Salado, Texas, the historic unincorporated village located on the first natural landmark designated in the state, Salado Creek, and on the old Chisholm Trail, has been named a national Bicentennial community.

The setting for the presentation ceremony of the Bicentennial flag will be on the grounds of Stagecoach Inn March 2, 1975, at 2:30 p.m., the 139th anniversary of Texas Independence Day. The flag which signifies the 200th birthday of the United States of America will be raised alongside the flag of the USA and a Texas flag. The public is invited. Maps for a Sunday Walking Tour will be provided.

A No-Host luncheon at Stagecoach Inn at 12:30 p.m. precedes the ceremony. Reservations are to be made directly with the Inn which dates to 1852 and has a Texas Historical medallion. It was restored in the 1940s by Mr. and Mrs. Dion Van Bibber, advisors to the SBC.

Senator John Tower notified Mrs. Robert Cutler, chairman of the Salado Bicentennial Commission and member of the Central Texas Bicentennial Commission, of the January 23, 1975, designation by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration in Washington, D.C.

"I am extremely proud of your good efforts in preserving our national heritage and my heartiest congratulations are extended to you and the members of your community for their fine accomplishments," Senator Tower stated in the Mailgram.

Mrs. Cutler, a descendant of Richard J. Stockton, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Mrs. Herbert Fletcher, honorary chairman, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, historian and publisher, composed the Salado Bicentennial Commission under the auspices of the Salado Chamber of Commerce.

Tom Wilkes, Jr., is president of the

S C C. The commission is represented by 25 service groups under the slogan: "Salado Salute! TO THE OLD AND THE NEW."

SALADO AN EDUCATION CENTER IN AGRICULTURAL AREA

During 1975 and 1976 a series of events will be sponsored under the guidelines of: Heritage, Horizons, and Festival. The Salado Chamber of Commerce and auxiliary with other organizations will revive the first agricultural fair to be held in Bell County in 1873. A display of old and new farm equipment will be exhibited and a crafts show where quilting, soap and candle making, weaving, and embroidery will be shown is slated as Salado Agricultural Showcase, Oct. 11-12. The old equipment will be gathered from local owners, the Parton Family Museum in Ellis County, and elsewhere.

Although Salado developed in the early days as an educational community from the gift of Col. E. Sterling C. Robertson of 100 acres for Salado College, it is also an agricultural, it also depicts Salado Creek.

Heritage and Festival costumes will be available in 1976 or those who have costumes will be encouraged to wear them during specific events.

BLUEBONNET COLLECTION EXHIBITS GOVERNOR'S MANSION SETTINGS

Mrs. Dolph Briscoe, Texas' First Lady, will loan place settings from the Governor's Mansion to be shown with the Bluebonnet Collection in a travelling exhibit arranged by the Texas Bluebonnet Festival Committee with state headquarters in Salado. The collection includes official proclamations signed by the Governor, the coronation crown and pillow, bluebonnet landscape oil paintings and costumes worn by former state flower queens in the Waco Cotton Pageant and Pilgrim.

The official Bicentennial flower of Bell County is the crepe myrtle, a shrub of East Indian origin. Jamie Bonner, Jr., a Salado Mill Creek resident, of Tem-Bel Nursery, has been named chairman of the

A sharp rise in the number of rapes has created a need for the inclusion of instruction in the art of self-defense in every girl's education, in the view of safety experts.

With the number of rapes estimated by law-enforcement officials at 500,000 for this year — a 62 per cent rise over 1968 — physical-fitness proponents as well as safety experts feel that women must be taught techniques for trying to ward off attacks, rather than thinking, 'it couldn't happen to me.'

The Department of Safety and Research of the Combined American Insurance Company, Dallas, has been in touch with several women's groups and law-enforcement agencies in an effort to learn what, if anything, can be done to stem the tide of rapes.

One leader in trying to deal with the problem is the Loop Center YWCA in Chicago, which conducts a physical fitness program designed to help make up for the fact that traditionally girls are not encouraged to engage in body-building exercises that would give them the strength for physical combat.

"The typical little girl spends more time in flinching and crying than in striking back," a Y official observed. "As a result, little girls and grown women find themselves physically unable to deliver an effective blow when they need to."

"In addition to the physical inability caused by this blank in our experience is the more crucial effect of our inability to seriously imagine ourselves slugging someone in the face."

An effort to remedy the situation is being made in an eight-week YWCA course in self-defense, including body-building exercises and instruction in kicking, blocking and breaking holds as well as in delivering well-aimed punches, slaps and gouges.

The FBI has records of 51,000 reported forcible rapes during 1973, 10 per cent more than in the previous year. Its officials reckon that only one out of six rapes are reported to police, while other criminologists estimate that the figure is more likely to be one out of 10.

Regardless of whose figures are used, it is obvious to many authorities that the incidence of rape is rising, particularly in large cities and in neighborhoods blighted with high crime rates.

In addition to learning to use physical strength to ward off attackers, the Combined Safety Department advises that there are several precautions that can be taken to minimize the chance of sexual attack. Here are some suggestions:

1. When walking alone at night, try to avoid shadows and seek the best-lighted streets. Don't dawdle and always appear to be alert.

2. If you think you are being followed, do not turn around to see if someone is behind you; walk briskly, change your direction, cross the street, hail a cab or ring a doorbell and ask for help.

3. If you feel you are in real danger while walking, use a police call box.

4. When waiting for a bus at night, stand in a lighted area.

5. If you want to be prepared in advance, carry a police whistle to blow in a moment of danger. Keep a hair spray container in your purse or pocket to use to temporarily blind a would-be assailant.

6. If you are cornered and are in dire need of assistance, don't call for help. Scream "FIRE." People respond more readily to a call of "fire" than a plea for "help."

7. If you go to a movie alone, sit in an aisle seat or next to a family group; if someone annoys you, move immediately and quickly to another seat.

8. Never enter an elevator occupied by a suspicious-looking male. If such a person follows you on, get off as quickly as you can and wait for the next car; or stand close to the control

ONE WOMAN'S ARCTIC, by Sheila Burnford, is the record of two summers spent close to the North Pole in the Eskimo community of Pond Inlet. It is also a knowing and sympathetic study of the Inuit (Eskimos) themselves. Mrs. Burnford warmly admires her friends' remarkable gifts as mechanics, artists, and hunters. She enjoys their courage, their gaiety, and their wise way with children.

20 YEARS IN THE SECRET SERVICE, by Rufus Youngblood, is an exciting story of the five Presidents he served. He takes the reader behind the scenes of government life to the hazards, threats, risks, constant tension, and often hilarious moments in the day-to-day workings of the most sensitive of government agencies.

CROWN OF ALOES is a historical novel by Norah Lofts. The novel brings to life the character and times of one of the most intriguing monarchs in European history, Isabella I of Spain.

THE SOUND OF DRUMS & CYMBALS is by Robert Wilder. Against a background of the gold and tinsel world that is Hollywood, Robert Wilder has set a moving novel of three generations of a family who built and destroyed a giant studio.

Exemptions for dependents

Several persons may share in paying for the support of a dependent, but federal law permits only one to claim a tax exemption for the dependent, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Howard C. Longley, acting IRS director for southern Texas, explained that if a taxpayer pays less than half the support he or she must be part of a group that contributes over half of the dependent's support. Moreover, each member of the group must meet all other requirements for claiming the exemption himself or herself.

Also, the person claiming the exemption must provide at least 10 percent of the dependent's support.

"Actually, the taxpayers can decide among themselves who will claim the tax exemption," Longley noted.

"The others must fill out a special declaration (Form 2120, Multiple Support Declaration) stating that they will not claim the exemption. The person claiming the exemption must file these forms with his or her return," Longley said.

The director added that IRS Publication 501, Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents, has more information on multiple support arrangements and is available free from IRS offices. The order blank in the Form 1040 package received in the mail by taxpayers can be used to get a copy of Form 2120 and Publication 501 conveniently by mail.

panel so you can press the alarm button if necessary. Whenever possible make sure that others are in the elevator with you on the theory that there is safety in numbers.

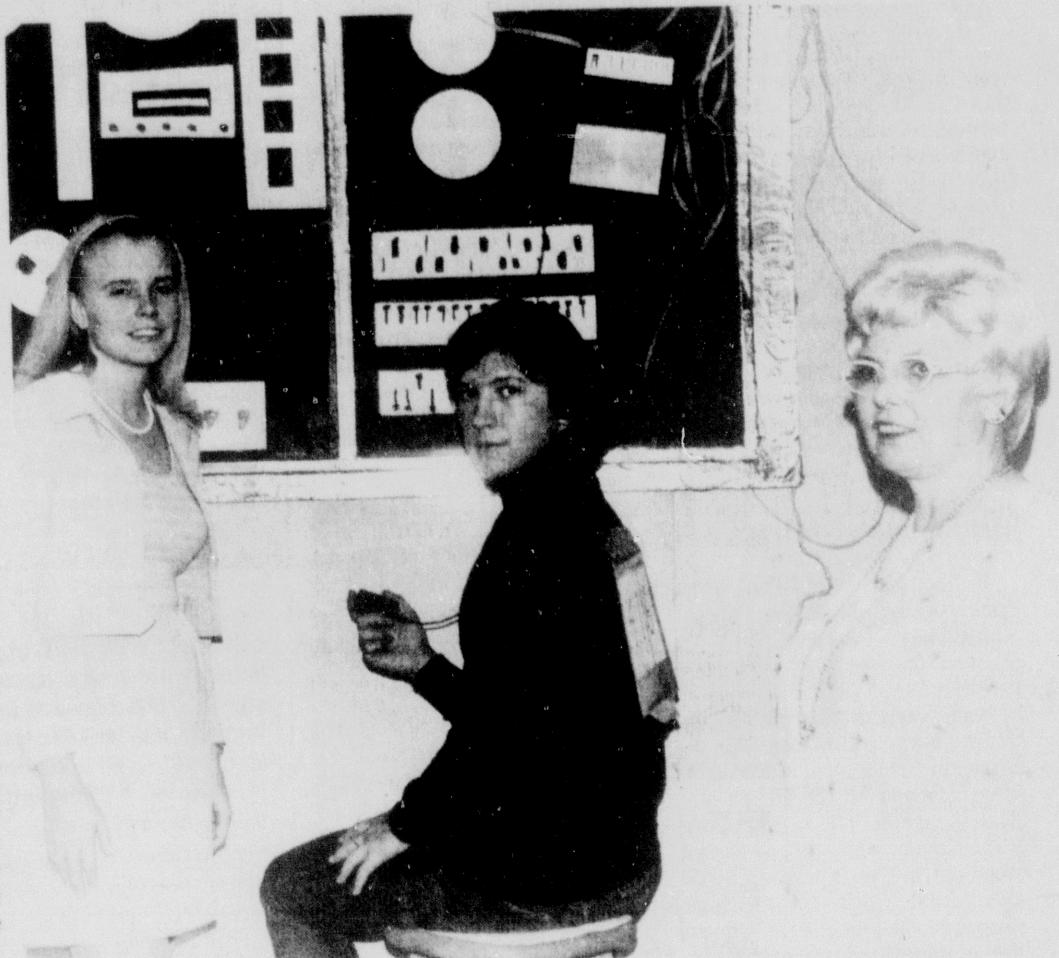

10. When driving alone, check the back seat before entering your car to make sure no one is lurking there; lock the doors before you start the engine. If you are pursued by another car, try to attract attention by honking your horn, running a red light or pulling into a driveway to seek help.

11. If you drive in a particularly dangerous area, you may want to resort to the extreme measure some women have used of wearing a false beard or carrying a male dummy on the front seat beside you.

12. Never pick up hitchhikers. Do some of these measures sound extreme? The authorities maintain that if caution is exercised, women can go a long way toward reducing the number of rapes.

"Every day a woman's life may be touched in some way by the fear of being the victim of an attack," a Combined Safety researcher observed. "If we start educating women from childhood to learn to protect themselves, we may be able to enhance their sense of security in later life."

STARS OF ONE-ACT PLAY — "Chairwoman Charley," by Richard Stevens, Karen Christoferson Eddie Catin and Betty Swift will be on stage at the Georgetown Area Community Theater on February 6, 7, 8. The other two plays will be "Rehearsal" by Kathi Holmans, a take-off on getting together a GACT production; and "Lemonade" directed by Gloria Duffy. Admission for the three one-act plays $1.50 for adults and 75¢ for children under 12. Reservations should be made in advance by calling 863-5875.

NATIONAL CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH WEEK

A demonstration in care of teeth will be presented at the Zion Lutheran School in Walburg to observe the 27th annual National Children's Dental Health Week.

Presenting the demonstration will be Joann Allen, a dental hygienist in Georgetown. A film showing Casper the friendly ghost fighting plaque will be shown.

Are there any special foods that contribute more than others to strong teeth? I want to help my children have good oral health.

Keep in mind that a well balanced diet that promotes overall health promotes dental health too. But if you have any questions about nutrition or meal-planning, your family dentist will be able to give you some personalized nutrition counseling.

Most people today eat far too many sweets and sugar-rich foods are a factor in dental decay. Simply, sugars activate the bacteria in the mouth, which in turn starts the formation of decay-causing acids. So to help prevent dental decay, it is wise to limit the consumption of sugar-rich foods and beverages to mealtimes. Avoid sugary foods between meals, especially hard candies, suckers, breath mints and the like. These foods are kept in the mouth for long periods of time and bathe the teeth continually.

Finally, don't reward good behavior with cookies. Give the youngsters apples, pears, popcorn or peanuts instead.

Coupled with good home oral hygiene habits and periodic visits to the dentist, a proper diet can help you and your family maintain healthy teeth for a lifetime.

Dr. Eidl named health director

Dr. Laurence Eidl was named acting director of Williamson County Health unit effective February 1 by County Commissioners Thursday. He will continue his practice at Georgetown Medical Clinic.

He will replace Dr. John Bryson who will continue as director in Bell County. Dr. Bryson has been director for both counties for several years. The operation in Bell County has expanded to require a full-time position. Dr. Bryson lives in Temple.

Also named as administrative assistant was Tom Teer who is a health unit employee at the Taylor office.

Consultants argue over rate-making

The economist who replaced Joe M. Nall and Associates as telephone rate consultant to the Georgetown City Council criticized Nall Wednesday for accepting $24,091 in consulting fees from the General Telephone Company in 1973.

Dr. Jack Hopper, a consultant for the Texas Senate subcommittee on consumer affairs, said, "A rate consultant cannot divide his allegiance between a city and a utility. The conflicts are too cut-and-dried."

Hopper added, "In the rate-consulting business, it boils down to one question: Who's going to get the money — the utility or the consumers?"

"It's impossible to avoid making a choice between the utility and the consumer. Because there are so many judgments involved in rate-making procedures, a consultant has to choose a side. It's either one or the other."

Hopper said he does not work for, consult or advise utility companies, because "I have chosen to side with the consumers."

Nall noted this week that his firm was paid $24,091 by General Telephone in 1973 for 90 days of work in the Bryan and Dallas areas. The Georgetown City Council was not aware of the contract work when it hired Nall last June to evaluate General Telephone's request for higher rates in Georgetown and Jarrell.

Nall has said that the work did not pose a conflict of interests with his position as Georgetown consultant.

He said that over 50 percent of his firm's $150,000 annual business is consulting cities and out-of-state utility commissions. The remainder of the work is for industries, he said.

"My firm is made up of professional engineers," Nall said. "We find out the facts, whether we're working for a private company or a city."

He said that rate-making and rate-consulting are governed by "strict formulas. It's an engineering decision. The formulas remain constant from rate-case to rate-case, no matter who we're working for."

Hopper, on the other hand, said that "ratemaking procedures are shot through with judgments. A consultant who is paid by a utility is going to make those judgments in favor of the utility."

"I work for cities, and I apply those judgments I'm faced with in favor of the cities."

Nall said that one of the first questions a professional rate consultant is asked is, "Have you ever worked for a utility?"

"It's important that you know this business from both sides," he said. "Working for utilities and private companies provides experience needed in rate-consulting."

Hopper said he knows "many extremely well-qualified consultants who have never worked for a utility."

Furthermore, Hopper said he opposed Nall in a rate case in Texas, where Hopper was consulting the City of Canee and Nall was consulting the telephone company there.

Nall said that Hopper's attacks on the Nall and Associates contract work for General Telephone is linked to bigger politics than the local telephone issue.

"This man personally attacks me and tries to discredit me," Nall said, "because he favors a state utilities commission for setting such rates as telephone service."

"I feel that local regulations — where the power is in the hands of the city council — is best."

discussion by the Georgetown City Council on February 10. He said the proposal was recommended for approval by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

THE ORDINANCE would protect the heritage of Georgetown, Morse said.

•Mrs. J. H. McCoy told the Bicentennial Committee that her subcommittee is researching "funny, mysterious and serious incidents in the history of Williamson County and preferably Georgetown."

She said her group plans to compile vignettes — short history capsules — about the different ethnic groups in Georgetown and about authentic historical incidents.

She asked people with such historical information to contact her or a member of the subcommittee.

•Marietta Mugford, Latin and history teacher at Georgetown High School, reported on the progress of the Heritage subcommittee to promote Bicentennial window displays.

The window displays will be prepared by Georgetown students, Mrs. Mugford said. Carol Paul has agreed to line up businesses to display the historical decorations, and Joan Rothammer is organizing a contest for students to build interest in the Bicentennial displays.

The store windows will carry the displays in 1975 from Memorial Day to July 4 and Veterans Day to Thanksgiving, and in 1976 from February 12 to March 2 and Memorial Day to July 4.

•Mike Riddle, Heritage co-chairman, is working with local Chambers of Commerce to print a map of Williamson County for Bicentennial tourists.

•Clara Scarbrough, Heritage co-chairman, said that the two Georgetown High School vocational classes will begin reconstructing the walls of the 120-year old Samuel Mather log cabin this Tuesday in the Lions Club Park in Georgetown.

THE CABIN was donated to the city by Emilie Jamail and is being relocated from its original Liberty Hill site.

Last week, Mrs. Scarbrough said, high school students put down concrete footings for the cabin. On Tuesday, they will begin to take each log and, following the numbered labels, put the building back together.

The project will take about 10 days. The students will also fill the cracks in the walls and coat the cabin with a preservative.

Mrs. Scarbrough said the Heritage committee is hard-pressed for funds, especially for the cabin project. The cost of moving the chimney for the cabin is estimated at $1200.

Festival U.S.A.

•Bill Williams, Festival co-chairman, reported that his committee is planning 11 days of activities to coincide with the Western Week celebration in 1976. The committee will sponsor celebrations in San Gabriel Park highlighting the heritage of Latin-American, Black, German, Polish, Swedish and Czech settlers.

AN OLD FIDDLERS CONTEST, square dance and a gospel music concert are also planned.

•Carroll Johnson stated that the Williamson County Sheriff's Posse Rodeo and the local Youth Rodeo will promote a Bicentennial theme.

He added that Bicentennial decorations will be used in the Western Week dances, and that the Sheriff's Posse will carry a Bicentennial flag in its parade.

•Gene Martinka reported that the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce plans to sponsor two Old Georgetown Markets this year and in 1976. Carol Paul, who is organizing that effort, has asked participants in the flea market and the Arts and Crafts Show to wear Bicentennial costumes.

ISABELLE PARKER, Stonehaven coordinator, offered to allow the Arts and Craft Show to be held at the Stonehaven Community Center. She also suggested the Bicentennial campaign include a domino contest, relying on the experienced domino players who often compete at Stonehaven.

Horizons '76

•Skip Morse, Horizons co-chairman, reported that in the summer of 1974 the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers was contacted about a proposed hike-and-bike trail in Georgetown.

The Army Engineers visited the proposed site and discussed methods of building and clearing for necessary trail bridges and crossovers. They advised they would make a study of the site and make recommendations," Morse said.

SO FAR, the Horizons committee has heard nothing from the Engineers, and Morse said that "should we not hear from the Army within the next 30 to 60 days, other procedures will be pursued."

•Morse also reported that the Bicentennial Bandstand is "on the drawing boards." He said the preliminary plan for the project has indicated it will cost $15,000.

Because the Citizens State Bank, First National Bank and the Georgetown Savings and Loan Association has guaranteed up to $7500 toward the project, the city applied for a matching federal grant to build the Bicentennial Bandstand.

Morse said, "Further efforts are being made to obtain private funds from philanthropic sources, who presently have requested they not be revealed, to finance all or part of the project to include stage lighting, sound systems and additional site work, and landscaping. Hopefully, by early summer some word will be received in this regard."

Leo Wood, city manager, said the city chose the bandstand for the grant application because it would allow the Bicentennial Committee to take full advantage of available federal funds. Also, cost estimates and other specifics were not available on other local projects.

•The Georgetown Garden Club's Community Beautification project is continuing, Marie Melburn reported. She said the club is considering sponsoring a flower show in 1975 and 1976.

To make the San Gabriel Park and the sunken garden as beautiful as possible, Mrs. Melburn said the club needs volunteers.

•ALLEN PETTY, past commander of the M/Sgt. Ben D. Snowden Post 8587 Veterans of Foreign Wars, told the Bicentennial Committee that the VFW Park is more than 90 percent complete.

He said the park will include two ballfields and tennis courts, as well as restrooms, a concession

Southwestern honors distinguished alums

Three Southwestern University graduates were honored Friday with Distinguished Alumnus Awards.

The outstanding graduates were Dr. Marlin L. Brockette, Texas education commissioner; Dr. George W. Elkins, realtor and civic leader; and Judge Ora A. Shaw, attorney, judge and oil producer.

Anthrax holds at 3 dead

The anthrax scare in west Williamson County has subsided, with the death count holding at three cows.

Dr. Gerald Stanfield, Georgetown veterinarian, said no animals died from the fatal blood infection since the third cow was found dead about one week ago.

The Texas Animal Health Commission has imposed a quarantine near Green's Corner on the Williamson-Burnet county line. All animals inside the quarantine were vaccinated with an anti-anthrax serum.

"SHAKY" WORLD MEAT SITUATION — An economist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station who recently spent some time abroad calls the world meat situation "shaky." Meat and poultry producers throughout the world have experienced a boom-bust cycle, and this has left the demand-supply balance for meat on uncertain grounds.

This man personally attacks me and tries to discredit me," Nall said, "because he favors a state utilities commission for setting such rates as telephone service."

"I feel that local regulations — where the power is in the hands of the city council — is best."

The three men were recognized at a reception in historic Mood Hall, and received their awards at a luncheon in Bishops Memorial Union.

Dr. Judson Custer presented Brockette with his award. Brockette, a 1934 SU graduate, began his career in education as a Milford teacher. He later served as administrator and teacher in five Texas school districts.

In 1967, Brockette was appointed to the Texas Education Agency staff. Three years later, he was named deputy commissioner of education. In 1974, Dr. Brockette assumed the top education post in the state as commissioner of education.

Dr. Edward T. Slaughter Jr. awarded George Elkins, a 1916 graduate, his honors for outstanding community service.

Elkins was instrumental in developing Beverly Hills, California. He has headed many civic, educational and charitable programs in Southern California. Elkins is a director of the National Association of Realtors.

Dr. Hal Gaddy Jr. presented Judge Oras Shaw with his Distinguished Alumnus Award.

Shaw, a Georgetown native who graduated with Elkins, practiced law in the booming oil towns of Oklahoma. Later, he started a second career as one of the most successful oil producers in that state.

Shaw is generous in his contributions to civic and educational efforts in Oklahoma.

★ Commissioners

throughout the county," Griffiths said.

Foust told the bankers, "We want you people to understand that the county is not obligated to make demand deposits in any bank."

STATING DISAGREEMENT with previous statements, James Smith president of Bank of the Hills in Cedar Park, said, "I think as commissioners you have a job to do for the people of the county to invest their money at the highest rate rather than subcumbent to a little political pressure. If you spread the money around, you won't get the best rates."

Garry Hinesley, president of Citizens' State Bank in Georgetown presented a counter-proposal with which most of the bankers seemed to agree.

"If all the banks in the county (wanting to be depositories) agreed to pay the maximum rate allowed by law, I think distributing the money in all the banks would be good."

Commissioner R. A. Rozacky said, "The county has too much money to put in one place." Other commissioners agreed, shooting down Smith's proposal.

Commissioners will make a formal decision on depositories at their meeting beginning at 10 a. m. Feb. 10. The meeting will be held in the commissioners' court room on the first floor of the courthouse.

stand and parking lots.

• the funds are available, the beautification and extension of Scenic Drive will begin this summer, Leo Wood said. The road will be continued through Georgetown out to the Leander Highway near the site of the proposed hospital.

•Barbara Seever reported on plans for an adult literacy program in the Georgetown Community.

She said the program will work with the public school right-to-read campaign, and that in the coming month, her subcommittee will set a date for the literacy project.

Volunteers are needed to work with program participants on a 1-to-1 basis, Mrs. Seever said.

Other citizens reported on contributions their groups plan to make to the Georgetown Bicentennial celebration.

Sever faculty members will teach the course, Harris said.

TONY CASSIO, Band Boosters president, offered his services, and said that with band director Rodney Klett, the Georgetown High School Band will dedicate certain football half-times in 1975 and 1976 to Bicentennial themes.

Ecology Volunteers are planning to construct an entrance marker to San Gabriel Park to match the gazebo and other park buildings, Linda Graves said.

The Ecology Volunteers are also seeking financial support to film a documentary on the Booty's Crossings, before that area is flooded by the North Fork project.

A drama production featuring the Georgetown Community Theatre, the high school drama group, and the Southwestern University drama department is planned in San Gabriel Park in the summer of 1976, Gene Hargett said.

The SU Theatre Department is also considering a musical production to emphasize the history of American music, Fred Goodson added.

THE FRIENDS of the Georgetown Public Library will cooperate in researching the ethnic history projects, Ted Rowell, Friends president, said.

He said the organization is also proposing a 4th of July celebration beginning this year to promote the library and the Bicentennial.

The Williamson County Livestock Association also offered to cooperate with the Bicentennial effort, Andy Prude, WCLA president, reported.

Lynn Burnette, Bicentennial director, said she is working on a project to record on tape the reminiscences of the oldest Georgetown citizens.

The Georgetown Girl Scouts will feature Indian-style camping at summer camp this year, Kathy Hubbard said. Next year, the Scouts will go on to pioneer and early settler camping.

Other groups represented at the Bicentennial meeting included the Socialites, Opti-Mrs., Georgetown Noon Lions Club, Georgetown Parent-Teacher Association, Newcomers, the Women's Club, Delta Kappa Gamma, Georgetown Study Club, the American Association of Retired Persons, the San Gabriel Women's Club, Alpha Iota Theta, and Alpha Delta Alpha.
